Real Estate Agents Make Masks for Branson Community Produced over 125 masks for first responders, children's clinic and more

BRANSON, Mo., April 27, 2020 –This Spring has proven to be an unusual real estate market, but two real estate agents at Weichert, Realtors® - Good Life located in Branson are not letting it stop them from supporting their community. Carolyn Boss and Nichole Lawrence are using their extra time to sew masks and provide helpful services for those in need in the Branson community.

They have produced and distributed over 125 masks for first responders, a children's clinic and the Meadow Ridge community at no charge and are continuing to produce more for anyone who needs a mask.

In addition to masks, they are also offering free services like grocery pick up and disinfecting the inside of cars for anyone who needs it.

"The spirit of Branson is all about helping each other — neighbors helping neighbors. We want to fill the need for those who could use help right now," Boss said. "We hope that what we're doing not only assists people who need it, but also inspires others to get creative and find ways to help each other."

With multiple U.S. states now requiring face masks to be worn in the public, Boss and Lawrence felt they could use their talents and time to serve their neighbors by providing face masks and services to those who needed them.

Boss said that "people first" is a value statement that Boss and Lawrence live by, and during this uncertain time, finding ways to support their community and help neighbors who need it is a top priority to get through this health crisis together.

If you or someone you know needs a mask, grocery pick up or car disinfecting service in the Branson area, call or text Carolyn Boss and Nichole Lawrence, at 667-201-8374.
